Savagery in Cuba.

It may be that a state of war does not exist in Cuba. At all events the garrote exists there, as infernal an instrument of torture as devilish ingenuity ever devised. The guilotine is a merciful machine. The keen blade fails, a head rolls into the basket, and it is all over. Hanging is much less merciful than the guillotine. Garroting is hanging with the horrors multi-plied so many times that there is no term to express its savage cruelty. The garrote is as simple as it is devilish. The victim sits on a chair against a heavy, strong post. An iron collar claspes the neck and the post. To the iron collar is attached a screw, to the screw a lever. The executioner operates the screwaboutas the driller works the screw in drilling an oil well. difference in the two operations is that in drilling a well the acrew works vertically, whilst in choking a man to death the screw works horizontally.

It is with this device that five Cu-Moro Castle, Havana. To make it as bad as could be, the frightful job was so bungled that those who looked on were stricken with horror. Weyler may well say that he did not turn the screw on these unfortunates. But the garrote is part of his plan of campaign. The captain of the screw is his minister to do his will.

Doubtless it will be said that the chair and the collar and the screw are sone of our great American business. The Cubans are human. So are we. They are fighting for freedom and a country. We have done that ourselves. In their desperation there is scarcely a law of civilized warfare that the Spanlards have not outraged in Cubs.
Yet it has been thought that our duty would be discharged if the President sent a commissioner to the island to what is going on, and whether there is any real objection among Cubans to what is going on and whether they are probably going to come out ahead in spite of apything we may do or leave

If our waiting policy falls to command the world's respect, that will not be strange. It does not command our

It is denied that Ambassador Bayard will resign. Certainly not. Few resign. Second Place on the Ticket.

A great party should choose a big man for the second place on its presi-dential ticket. This duty and this policy are the more obvious when the ac-Speaker Reed is a big' With McKinley for first place Reed will fit nicely in the second. His locality is good. With these two men the ticket will be well made as to personality and geography.

A New England Republican mebers of Congress, speaking through the New York World, urges Mr. Reed for Vice President, saying that he would reform out of existence some senate customs that should be abolished, and he would be worthy to succeed to the presidency.

Burely an office that has been filled by John Adams, Thomas Jefferson, George Clinton, Elbridge Gerry, John C. Calhoun, Martin Van Buren, Millard Fillmore and others of note in our his-tory, is not beneath the dignity of any American statesman. Four vice Presidentsfi Tyler, Fillmore, Johnson and Arthur, have stepped from the presi-dency, of the senate to the presidency of the United States. In 1884 the Republican party nominated Blaine and Logan, two states men of high rank, both fit to fill the presidential office. This is the kind of ticket for 1894-a double-ender, first class any way you look at it.

Perhaps the return of winter is only an April fool joke. It cuts pretty deep, neverthelens.

The color line has been drawn sharp ly in the New York Methodist Episco-pal Conference. The proposition to add s colored man to the bench of bishops gave an oportunity to show a preju dice which could not be more out of place than in such a body. Since there are colored mebers of the church and colored preachers, why not a colored bishop? The color line will have to be very distinctly drawn in heaven or ne of the brethren will refuse to go

Have we come to this, that when a Democrat says in the house that he represents the Grover Cleveland admin-istration he is treated to derisive guffaws and otherwise despitefully used?

Is there none so poor to do him rev-erance? Yet there has been talk of compelling Mr. Cleveland to save his And he used to be the Consecrated One.

It cannot be that all New England is intensely anti-McKinley. For in-stance, there is New Hampshire, which clares that it wants either Reed or McKinley. It does not discriminate. The fact is that the New England Republicans are decidedly friendly to Mo-Kinley and there will not be a delegate from that region who will go the convention in ignorance of this feeling.

By the bursting of a steam pipe on the Chilean monitor Husscar eight men lost their lives. The old-time wooden war ship driven by the wind burst no steam ples. The modern war ship is a machine which adds new dangers to the perils of the sea and the hazards of fighting. The world progresses and pays for its progress.

Our old friend Wharton Barker, of Philadelphia, seems to have been the chief engineer of the conference between certain manufacturers and the silver senators. Brother Barker is a very earnest man, which makes it too bad that the Manufacturers' Club of Philadelphia should repudiate the whole business.

All the street car companies of Pitts-burgh have consolidated with a cap-ital of $25,000,000. It is the intention to tear up all the costly cable plants and substitute the trolley system. The cable has had its day. The trolley has triumphed over the horse, the mule and the wire rope.

England is risking a great deal in Africa. If she suffers defeat there her great prestige will be greatly impaired, and then she may have all the wild animals of Europe on her back. The thirst for conquest is as dangerous as the opium habit.

The New York Press predicts that the five free silver bucks will be glad enough to come in from the bad lands before long. Big Buck Pettigrew must wish even now that the horrid recent past could be blotted out. His state declares against the half-dollar dollar.

Four years ago many Democrats were yearning for their party's presidential nomination. To-day there is hardly a yearn to speak of. The Democratis party is little more than a mem ory, and a not very savory one at that Even the fire escape is not to be re-lied on. In the latest tenement house disaster the iron ladder attached as a fire escape became so hot nobody could escape by it. Here is another chance for ingenuity.

The fatal casualty of Main street hill was sad in the last degree, but it is a satisfaction to know that nobody was to blame. The motorman could not see Mrs. Browne and she could not see the car.

Whoever the nominee of the St. Louis convention may be he will be inaugur-ated as President of the United States to succeed Grover Cleveland, released.

If the Easter bonnet doesn't look sharp it will be knocked out by the belated bliszard.

KNOCK-ABOUT NOTES.

The other day I was talking with Hon. Thomas E. Davis, of Grafton, who would have been governor of West Virginia now if his party had not been a little short of votes in 1892. Mr. Da-vis made a business man's campaign and impressed everybody with his sound commons ense and solid quali-ties. He more than came up to the ties. He more than came up to the expectation in the canvass. Well, I was talking with him about the present and the near future. He is not a candidate for anything and views the situation broadly. He thinks there will be a fight in West. Virginia, for although the chances are against the Democrats they will not let go without a contest. He sees no probability of any opposition to Aitlinson for governor, and it is his opinion that with Mc-Kinley at the head of the national ticket there will be a decided gain for the whole ticket in West Virginia. Mr. Davis said some very nice things about Mr. Lafollette, the Taylor county candidate for auditor.

What do you think of a man who has a second choice for the presidenhis first choice? I talked with such a man recently, and a mighty good fellow he is. I had not time to discover by what process he reached his conclusion of the second degree, but I have no doubt that he could have given his reasons.

The country has been flooded with hair-raising stories about the bloodhalf-raising stories about his book shed in the Kanawha delegation in the recent Third district convention. Since I talked with the man who is said to have been drenched in his own gore-talked with him after the fracas—and saw not even a scratch on him, I am inclined to think that somebody's facility pen ran away with him. The uproar-in the Kanawha delegation was not creditable, but there was no knocking down and dragging out. Seeing what good there is in each faction and how little reason there is for faction and contention, it is to be regretted that all differences have not been reasoned out to a conclusion honorable to both sides and promotive of the party's greatest good. However, in spite of existing differences, I predict that the Democrats will get nothings in Kanawha county this year. Kanawha county is handsomely Republican and will not go back.

Among the willing Barkisses and the shed in the Kanawha delegation in the

Among the willing Barkisses and the men who will show well in the Repub-lican contest for auditor is Captain llean contest for auditor is Capian John K. Thompson, of Putnam. Captain Thompson was a Confederate soldier. In the unpleasantness he lost an eye. I heard him say good naturedly: "Some Yankee got that eye, and it is worth more to him than it was to me he is welcome to it." Along with other good people Captain Thompson knows the war is over.

Jacob B. Hyer, of Braxton, Republi-can nominee for auditor in 1892, is in the field this time. If the women had the field this time. If the women had votes and Jake were unmarried I rather think the sisters would flock to his standard, for he is an uncommonly good looking man. He is also an experienced and successful business man. Ash M. Prince is another good piece of timber in the auditorial line. He is paying pretty close attention to his own Third district, but in time he will widen the circle of his missionary labors.

I was in a group of Republicans who wars in a group of the campaigns of 1992 and 1894. The senatorship coming up, one of them said: "Did it ever occur to you that the Republican party in West Virginia might have been divided and bobaless now instead of united and conHighest of all in Leavening Power.-Latest U.S. Gov't Report fident of success? Suppose that after accepting the leadership of Mr. Elkins we had declined to make him senator. No matter how loyal he had been, a large element of the party would have felt dishonored and discouraged. As it is to-day we are all proud of our new senator and all pressing to the front for another great Republican victory. The Republican party in West Virginia kept faith. Its honesty was good policy.

In some congressional districts in this country they play politics up to the handle. Coming down the Ohlo with the visiting statesmen from Washington I was told of a case in point. One of the members of the committee got his nomination after a hot fight. His opponent wrote to him about as follows:

My Dear

I spent $21,000 trying to defeat you and my ready resources are slightly impaired. Otherwise I would send you more than my enclosed check, which I In some congressional districts in this

I spent $21,000 trying to defeat you and my ready resources are slightly impaired. Otherwise I would send you more than my enclosed check, which I hope may be of service to you to your campaign.

The check was for $500. Wasn't that a handsome way to bow to the victor and to wish him good luck?

Speaking of river improvement, I was looking over some historical plunder and came across a river-front view of and came across a river-front view of Cincinnati in 1810. About fifty houses were in sight. It was probably the fault of the artist that all the houses were tall and narow-walsted. The most impressive feature was a flat boat steered by a man in a Prince Albert coat and a plug hat. Behold how the glory of the beautiful river has departed since 1810. In these degenerate days the men who steer the rude river draft do not wear the afternoon costume of Broadway.

To Wreck the Mississippi State Capitol Building. JACKSON, Miss., April 2.—An attempt was made last night to wreck the state capitol. At 10 o'clock, while Secstate capitol. At 10 o'clock, while Secretary of State Power was engaged in his office at the capitol, he heard a noise outside. Going to the window he saw several men digging at the wall between the door and the window. His appearance frightened away the men and an investigation showed that two pieces of stone about two feet square had bee removed from the wall. Had the wark gone on a little longer a section of the wall about four by twenty feet would have fallen, thus wrecking the whole building.

Strenuous efforts were made during the recent sessions of the legislature to provide for a new building, but nothing was done in the matter and it is thought some miscreants took this means of securing immediate action.

College Boys Strike.

PITTBBURGH, Pa., April 2.—The senior class at the Allegheny Theological Seminary has gone out on a strike of Rev. John Wilson, D. D., the professor of church history, and refuse to recit to him. So far their revolt seems to be a success. At least the class has had no church history to fectie since the holidays.

Allegheny Seminary is governed by the synods of New York, Ohio, North Pennsylvania and Pittsburgh. It has always been orthodox and has graduated some of the most famous ministers of the United Presbyterian denomination.

No Longer Danger.

LONDON, April 2.—The secretary of state for the colonies, Mr. Joseph Chamberian, received despatches from the governor of Cape Colony, Sir Hercules Robinson, to-day announcing that the outlying stations about Bulowayo have been relieved, and that Bulowayo and Gwelo are no longer considered to be in danger of attack.

NEW YORK, April 2.—The color line was distinctly visible for a short time in to-day's session of the New York in to-day's session of the New York Methodist Episcopal conference. It was precipitated into view by a resolution offered by the Rev. Delos Lull, of Woodlawn, which recommended that the general conference take under consideration the advisability and expediency of putting a colored man on the bench of bishops. This was characterized by the Rev. C. H. McAnney as an attempt at special legislation for the colored race, many of whom, he said, had shown themselves ungrateful for favors received.
